Gospel Message in Tent Meetings

Adventists Begin Series on the Otis Street Corner—Visiting Pastors in Two Norwich Pulpits

A series of free Bible lectures was begun on Sunday evening under the auspices of the Seventh Day Adventists in a tent erected in the lot at the corner of Otis street and McKinley avenue, and had a congregation of about thirty present for the opening night. The evangelist, Mr. W. R. Andrews of Pawtucket, assisted by Professor E. Gardner, of South Lancaster, Mass., who also acted as organist, the musical part of the services are led by an orchestra comprising Mrs. E. E. Gardner, pianist, Miss Jennie Smith, violinist, Floyd Gardner, cornetist, and Earl Gardner, baritone. This missionary visitor in connection with the meeting, Mr. E. E. Gardner, of South Lancaster, Mass., who also acted as organist, the musical part of the services are led by an orchestra comprising Mrs. E. E. Gardner, pianist, Miss Jennie Smith, violinist, Floyd Gardner, cornetist, and Earl Gardner, baritone. This missionary visitor in connection with the meeting, Mr. E. E. Gardner, of South Lancaster, Mass., who also acted as organist, the musical part of the services are led by an orchestra comprising Mrs. E. E. Gardner, pianist, Miss Jennie Smith, violinist, Floyd Gardner, cornetist, and Earl Gardner, baritone.

The meeting Sunday evening opened with a song service of twenty minutes led by Professor Gardner, after which Mr. Andrews spoke upon the theme, Christ, The All and In All, taking his text Colossians 3: 11. Christ all and in all. He affirmed that any gospel preaching is a test of the living faith of the preacher. It was one that would stand the test of time or eternity, but that Jesus Christ was the solid foundation to build upon and the only way to life. Christ himself was the foundation stone laid for the building of Christ—character, tried and true, by every test that could be put upon him, and found worthy to be the foundation of the gospel preached to every Jew and high priests of his time, yet he is become today the chief stone of the corner. Whether Baptist, Congregational, Catholic, or Presbyterian, Adventist, if you are building on Jesus Christ you are safe. But keep on building. That is the requisite. Build not on wood, hay, stubble, but on the sure foundation of Jesus Christ and put into your building the pure gold of Christian character, and come forth as a shining city on a hill. Jesus Christ, which will crush out the power of sin in your life.

The tent in which the meetings are held was erected on Sunday morning. A platform for the evangelist and the musicians has been arranged at the front and Scripture texts are displayed on banners about the walls. The following is the list of topics arranged for the evenings this week:
 Monday, July 31—"How Shall Man be Right with God?"
 Tuesday, August 1—"True Religion."
 Wednesday, August 2—"What It Means to Be a Soul."
 Thursday, August 3—"The Great Invitation."
 Friday, August 4—"The Unpardonable Sin."
 Saturday, August 5—"The History of the World in a Dream."

At Trinity Methodist Episcopal church on Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. W. S. McIntyre, of Hartford in the absence of the pastor, Rev. F. W. Coleman, upon his vacation, preached a sermon of characteristic power and forcefulness from Rev. Mr. McIntyre. There was no evening service.

At Central Baptist Church.
 At the Central Baptist church on Sunday evening the pulpit was occupied by Rev. Byron L. Hatfield of Newburg, N. Y., the pastor, Rev. P. C. Wright, being at the First church, Providence. Rev. Mr. Hatfield, who has spoken here before, was heard with interest by a good sized congregation.

From the scripture found in Numbers 23: 20-22, the preacher took the text for his text, and preaching a sermon. Describing the observance of the first passover after the deliverance from Egypt, and the beginning of the long march to the promised land through the grim unknown desert, the speaker dwelt on Moses' feeling of need for an experienced guide to show them the way. And Hobbab, whom he asked to lead them, because of his acquaintance with the desert, refused to go for good wages, because they would "do him good." But the second invitation to come to serve, "to be to us instead of eyes," he accepted. He would not go for what he could get out of it, but he would go for the help he could bring to other lives. Moses sought for human aid in the journey, although God was his guide, because while God is all sufficient, He is ready always to use all the means available that will aid in carrying out His divine purpose.

Life is a pilgrimage through a rough and unknown land, and there are dangers and barriers and solitary places in spite of love and companionship. Yet it is true that our own little world is very largely what we make it. God has filled life not with struggles, but with triumphs. There are times when life reaches harmony for a little while, but with the element of struggle and struggle it is that determines whether our lives shall be lived on a high plane or on a low one. Life provides a discipline that trains the higher things to come. And this discipline need not be always painful, for God gives us joy, peace, comfort, rest, cheer, to counteract the weariness of life. God was the real leader, not Moses nor Hobbab. His presence manifested by the cloud by day and pillar of fire by night. We may not be conscious of His guiding presence, but if we seek and surrender to His leadership, God will direct us in every direction, but we are slow of heart.

Our divine elder brother Jesus Christ has traveled over all our way. By experience He has learned the perils and discouragements of the journey, the safe camping places, the refreshing springs, and He can show us. There are times in the lives of all of us when we need a brother to cheer us, and a brother's example to inspire us, and Jesus Christ is that brother.

Moses saw by faith the promised land, and he wanted Hobbab to share in the blessing. If a man's a Christian, he wants someone else to be a Christian. This invitation of Moses to Hobbab is the invitation of the church to the man outside. And we need to make the second part of the invitation. We must make it persuasive by saying "If you will not come for the good you can get, then come for the good you can put into it. If you won't come to gain, then come to serve."

CRACKER STOCK DAMAGED.
 Leak from Hot Water Boiler Floods Leak from Hot Water Boiler Floods Leak from Hot Water Boiler Floods

Damage estimated at $2000 was done on Sunday morning at the National Biscuit company's store, No. 81 Franklin street, by water from a leaky hot water tank in the basement over the store. The leak was discovered about 9 o'clock Sunday morning, and the store was closed. The water was able to reach the store, and was extensively damaged. The water was also running down into the cellar, where a large quantity of broken crackers were wet down. In the store the water dripped through from the ceiling in a number of different spots, so that a large number of boxes of crackers, both tin and wooden boxes, were wet, and their contents either wholly or partly spoiled. The manager, Stephen Stenberg, and his assistants spent the greater part of the morning sweeping the water out and separating the damaged crackers from those that had not been touched by the water. His stock had just been replenished by a large shipment, so that the loss was particularly unfortunate.

SUSPECTS FOUL PLAY.
 Middletown Coroner Thinks Fort Terry Soldier May Not Have Died from Natural Causes.

In the opinion of Coroner Stephen B. Davis of Middletown, Conn., Corp. Harry Miller of the Eighty-eighth company of artillery, stationed at Fort Terry, whose body was towed into Saybrook Point Friday, came to his death by foul means. The coroner will write to Colonel Terry, informing him that the jurisdiction of holding an inquest lies with Coroner Frank H. Brown of New London county. However, Coroner Brown stated Sunday evening that from all the information he had about the finding of the body, he thought it would come under the jurisdiction of a New York state coroner. He said he had heard nothing from the authorities at the fort.

G. H. Tember of Providence, whose yacht towed in the body, went to Middletown on Saturday and made an affidavit to the finding of Miller's body floating in the Sound.

The body was buried on Saturday by order of Coroner Davis, and will not be disturbed until an order from the registrar of vital statistics is given. Officers from Fishers island were at Old Saybrook on Saturday to claim the body. The statutes provide that no body shall be removed from the grave during the months of June, July, August and September unless a criminal act is proved. The officers returned to their quarters and will probably ask for the necessary papers to remove the body for investigation, stating that the same time they had the right to claim the body as it was found in the government's domain and was thrown to the ground. She received no attention to the brain and is not expected to live.

GLORIOUS HAIR

To Possess it Every Woman Must Get Rid of Dandruff

Dandruff is caused by germs; these germs infect the roots of the hair and voraciously devour the nourishment that nature intends the hair to have.

Allow these destructive and persistent little devils to keep on eating and soon the hair of any person will lose its natural life and lustre, will fade, turn gray and fall out.

A fifty cent bottle of Parisian Hair (now sold all over America) will kill more dandruff germs than any other known agent.

It is guaranteed to banish dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp, or money back. Sold by The Lee & Osagood Co. and druggists everywhere.
